

At Least Double Recoveries

The Issue

On average, companies spend 7.6 percent of their revenue on health care-related costs. This is an enormous expense that impacts every plan member, especially if the plan is not recovering funds it rightfully should. This is why Benefit Recovery Group was created – to help companies recover all available subrogation dollars.

What we do works.

One of our clients, a reputable Fortune 500 company, noticed wasted opportunities when they took an in-depth look at their subrogation statistics. With thousands of plan members, the company knew that, statistically, the plan was paying claims for which it was not responsible. It appeared that they were recovering, at best, half the dollars they were owed.

Settling for only 50 percent of recoveries was unacceptable. To rectify the situation, the company contacted Benefit Recovery Group, knowing that we specialize in subrogation and have a proven history of maximizing employers' recovery potential.

Since the beginning of our partnership, BRG has more than tripled the company's annual recoveries, reduced wasted funds and added more than $11 million back into the company's health plan. The additional revenue now helps offset costs for the employer and plan members.

Similar results for every client.

This company's situation is not unique. In fact, every company that has partnered with BRG has at least doubled its subrogation recoveries. With companies spending significant portions of their revenue on health care, eliminating waste and increasing efficiency is essential. Benefit Recovery successfully does both.

Since the beginning of our partnership, BRG has more than tripled the company's annual recoveries, reduced wasted funds and added more than $11 million back into the company's health plan.

EXCEPTIONAL STEWARDSHIP. UNEXPECTED RESULTS.
